I am a former architect / interior designer. During my architectural career, I developed skills such as, analytical thinking, teamwork, communication with clients and most importantly - design thinking. I believe it is one of the main skills required in both fields - architecture and product design. From a technical perspective, I'm good with Adobe Photoshop, Illustrator, starting to crack Adobe XD.

I believe product design is my path because I always like to know why I should act in one way or another. I am highly empathetic, I enjoy structure and care about details. I am practical but love aesthetics. Most importantly, I feel I already have what it takes, but need to put it in practice.
